CEPT University will bear all necessary expenses for Prof. Kruti Shah for the said Summer course, including the round-trip airfare, food, accommodation, medical insurance and all other incidental expenses.

1. About Course

This course will focus on the qualification of public space in a public housing neighborhood in Lisbon, considering the outcomes of a prior community engagement process. Students will be asked to propose diverse-scale design solutions to improve the public realm. The course will start with discussions and presentations about the political-economic and architectural context of the city and the neighborhood, and an observation exercise about the existing condition and activities of public space. Students will then will work in groups to choose a site (from pre-listed options), and delve into the design of those spaces based on the identified needs and aspirations of the community. Visualizations of the proposals will be exhibited and presented to local stakeholders, fostering a comprehensive exploration of public space improvement.
